Mrs. Sallie Ward Downs. It was stated yesterday that Mrs. Sallie Ward Downs, the greatest belle of the South in ante-bellum days, is lying critically ill in Louisville, Ky. Her physician gives but little hope of her recovery, as she is suffering from a complication of diseases, in addition to being well along in years. Mrs. Downs is the daughter of the late Robert Ward, one of the wealthiest of the Louisiana planters of fifty years ago. He made his home in Cleveland and dispensed a regal hospitality. His old-est daughter, Sallie Ward, became famous for her beauty, wit and daring, as a girl. Before she was sixteen years old she was a great belle and the toast of all Louisville and New Orleans beaux. Her father's home became famous for the number and splendor of the entertainments given there. On one ball over $3,000 was spent for violets for the drawing room. Sallie Ward was married to Bigelow Lawrence, of Boston, while very young. The marriage was not happy, and a divorce court freed the pair. Miss Ward was afterward married to Dr. Hunt, of Louisville, who died a short time after the marriage. Her third husband was Vene Armstrong, also of Louisville, who also A few years ago she startled society pleasantly by the announcement that she would marry Mr. George F. Downs, a rich retired merchant. Downs had been one of her early lov-ers. The wedding was a very quiet one, and the pair have always lived imply but elegantly. Her reputation as a beauty made her a well-known figas a beauty made her a well are ure in Cleveland, and her society was ure in Cleveland, and her society was sought everywhere she went. Her house was always the gathering place of distinguished men and brilliant women, of which she was the center. Her drawing rooms were probably the nearest approach to a salon this coun-
